Statistical Significance Thresholds

Below you will find the thresholds for statistically significant differences between demographic groups. The minimum difference between groups to be considered statistically significant is based on the sample size for each individual demographic question. Therefore, statistical significance thresholds will vary from one demographic category to the next.

Use the drop down menu to the right to select demographic dimension. If there were no responses within a specific demographic option, that option will not appear in the table.

	CRA & Coastal Communities	Northern Loxahatchee River/Riverside Drive Communities/Central Jupiter & Charter Neighborhoods	Western Communities & The Shore/Heights, Hamptons, Indian Creek & Loxahatchee Club	Albacoa/ Admirals' Cove & Bears Club
CRA & Coastal Communities		16%	13%	14%
Northern Loxahatchee River/Riverside Drive Communities/Central Jupiter & Charter Neighborhoods	16%		16%	17%
Western Communities & The Shore/Heights, Hamptons, Indian Creek & Loxahatchee Club	13%	16%		14%
Albacoa/ Admirals' Cove & Bears Club	14%	17%	14%

Demographic Comparisons

The comparison tables contain the cross tabulations of selected survey questions by respondent characteristics. Responses have been summarized to show only the proportion of respondents giving a positive answer ("percent positive"). Most commonly, the percent positive is the combination of the top two most positive response options (excellent/good; very/somewhat safe).

When two subgroups differ significantly, an upper-case letter appears in the column with the higher percentage. This letter points to the subgroup with the lower percentage, indicating where the significant difference lies. All significant subgroup differences are organized by characteristic in the "Statistical Significance" tab. If no upper-case letter appears in a column, and the item is not referenced in another column, there was no statistically significant difference between subgroups.

The filters on the right allow you view results by a specific facet across different demographic variables. Additionally, you can choose to view items with statistically significant differences only.
